Ulisancas respects your right to privacy and does not collect personal information about you without your consent. However, to provide our services and commercial transactions, some personal data are mandatory, so that their lack or inaccuracy will prevent their realization. The provision of incorrect or inaccurate data is your sole responsibility.

The personal data collected is processed for billing purposes, answers to your questions, requests and complaints, and may also serve to evaluate the contractual relationship, or information and marketing actions of Ulisancas, but will never be provided to third parties under any pretext. The person responsible for the processing of personal data is Ulisancas - Comércio de Materiais de Construção Lda., through its "Responsible for Data Processing", which can be contacted by email: ulisancas@ulisancas.pt

Ulisancas uses subcontracting of accounting, IT and other legally required services, as well as using electronic mail services, which can be treated or housed outside of Ulisancas, and in these situations the required levels of security and protection are those that are in compliance with the law that regulates the processing of personal data, these entities being obliged to the confidentiality and security of any data to which they have access for that purpose, not being able to use them for other purposes, nor to relate them to others they eventually possess.

Personal data may be made available to courts and other competent entities only in cases strictly provided for by law, such as the protection of public safety, security and defense of the State, or prevention, investigation and detection of criminal offenses.

CONSERVATION OF PERSONAL DATA

Ulisancas will retain personal data only for the period of time necessary to provide the service or to carry out existing business transactions with each customer, or to comply with legal obligations, such as the period during which an invoice can be paid or disputed, or for the periods necessary for the purpose of investigation and prosecution, proceeding to its elimination as soon as it is lawful.

The consent given for the processing of personal data inherent to the provision of a particular service, or to the performance of a certain commercial transaction, may be withdrawn, but will not affect the lawfulness of the data processing while the consent is valid. Under legal terms, a complaint may be lodged with a supervisory authority.

SECURITY OF PERSONAL DATA

In order to ensure the privacy of personal data, employees of Ulisancas, as well as all those who provide services to you and, through the exercise of their duties, have access to personal information, undertake not to disclose it to third parties, or use them outside the scope of the law. The commitment not to disclose personal information may also be translated into written agreement of confidentiality agreements, where applicable. Ulisancas keeps its IT systems up-to-date and protected, with continuity contracts for hardware and software, systematically ensuring procedures for preventing unauthorized access, and loss or destruction of personal data, including encryption of documents and existence of access profiles.

In order to ensure the processing of data and compliance with the Privacy and Treatment of Personal Data policies, Ulisancas internally designated a Person in Charge for the Treatment of Personal Data, which also requires our service providers to declare compliance with "Regulation General for Data Protection".
